Message To The College Community

Sister Karen Kennelly

On October 15, 1990, Mount St. Mary's College celebrated its sixty-fifth anniversary. In the life of a college, as in the life of a person, certain milestones have a special significance. For those of us who make up the MSMC community, this sixty-fifth anniversary invites us to take stock—looking back into our history as a college and looking ahead to what the future holds.

Looking back at Mount St. Mary's beginning, we catch a glimpse of the founders, a small band of women with vision and courage. They saw what a Catholic college for women could contribute to Los Angeles, and they took the first steps in making Mount St. Mary's a reality. During the summer months of 1925, they initiated the legal process to incorporate the College. They assembled a faculty and administration—modest by today's standards—of eight full-time employees. Four sisters handled administrative duties, and four sisters made up the full-time faculty, assisted by five part-time professors: one priest, one layman and three laywomen. Together, they arranged for space on the campus of St. Mary's Academy and recruited the first class of twenty-five students.

Another milestone on the path was the purchase and development of the Chalon campus. Where others saw a breathtakingly beautiful but inaccessible hilltop, the founders saw opportunity. They planted their college amid the strawberry and bean fields, the citrus and avocado groves with faith in God, in the future and in the value of their endeavor.

A small grove of avocado trees on Bundy has come to symbolize for me our founding women and the many other women and men who came along to carry out the founders' vision. The old trees are rough and strong; their trunks and branches twist and spread, drawing their nourishment from the flinty soil and the air. Fire has passed them by; floods have failed to dislodge them; drought has not discouraged their growth. Their leaves are green; their fruit comes in due season.

So has the work of our founders taken root and grown from year to year, producing a second campus, graduating over 6,000 alumnae, involving hundreds of faculty and staff. It has flourished, attracting trustees, regents and associates in the support and education of students, primarily women, from every walk of life and many parts of the country and the world.

Now the work of creating a college of excellence falls to us. The goals we have and the challenges we face are not very different from those of our founders. They had a vision of a Catholic liberal arts college for women at a time when higher education for women was relatively rare. Today, the place of a women's college in higher education is under attack. Almost all of their students were the first in their family to attend college, and that is true of MSMC today. From the outset efforts were made to offer programs of study that would prepare women for careers outside the home while still emphasizing the liberal arts and sciences. The same philosophy guides our curriculum today.

From the beginning, our founders marked the College with a spirit of openness and welcome to all women who desired and could benefit from a college education regardless of creed, family income or cultural and ethnic background. The wonderful diversity of the student body in 1990-91 shows our fidelity to that tradition. Sixty-five years ago, many students needed financial help to pay the staggering tuition of $75 (room and board came to an additional $250 per semester). The founding sisters saw that they got the help they needed in the form of scholarships or tuition remission for work on campus. The sisters struggled hard to find resources to help needy students, to pay faculty, build classrooms and dormitories and pay the monthly bills.

That struggle continues today. More than ever, the College depends on its alumnae and friends for the financial support needed to keep the founders' vision of excellence alive. Happily, we have much evidence of Mount St. Mary's continuing strength and vitality. For the second year in a row, U.S. News and World Report has placed Mount St. Mary's among the top liberal arts colleges in the West. The Irvine Foundation has honored us with a $600,000 challenge grant to encourage alumnae giving to our scholarship endowment fund.

Alumnae are, perhaps, the greatest beneficiaries of the founder's vision, and it is to them I speak for a moment. In a very real sense, the future of the College lies in your hands. You can pass on the heritage that you have received and take the next step into the future by making it possible for new generations of students to attend MSMC. There are many ways to do this: encourage your daughters to attend Mount St. Mary's, tell the College story to friends, colleagues and prospective students. Those unacquainted with the College need to hear that women of diverse ethnic and cultural backgrounds, family circumstances and age are at home at MSMC. Volunteer your services when you have the opportunity. Participate in the various activities sponsored by the Alumnae Association. Continue to be the network of caring, professional women ready to help MSMC students and new grads get their start. Take part in the strategic planning process that the College is engaged in. If you can, accept the challenge of the Irvine Foundation and double—or even triple—your annual contribution.

With sixty-five years of alumnae support behind us, and the promise of a generous response to the present challenge grant, we can look forward eagerly to another sixty-five years. Just as our founders could not imagine 1990, we have no idea what things will look like in 2055. But we share their vision and their faith that Mount St. Mary's College will be a vital part of the future—2055 here we come!

Irvine Opportunity Awards

A special Challenge to Our Alums

You have the opportunity to create a new tradition at Mount St. Mary's College: a tradition of pledging. At the same time, you will be helping us continue our tradition of excellence in education.

Your gifts to the annual fund for the next three years will go to create an endowment named for you: the Alumnae Opportunity Award Fund.

Last October, the James Irvine Foundation offered a $600,000 challenge grant to MSMC to establish an Opportunity Award for incoming students who might not otherwise be able to afford a quality college education.

We must match the Irvine Foundation's generosity—with contributions now, and pledges of continued support in the '92 and '93 annual fund drives. We must meet the Irvine challenge if we are to receive the matching funds.

The grant will come in two installments, and both will require matching funds from our alumnae. The first installment will be used for the Irvine Opportunity Awards in '91-'92, the second in '92-'93. After that, it's up to us.

To ensure that the award continues beyond 1993, the contributions you pledge to future fund drives establish a permanent endowment for the Alumnae Opportunity Awards.

Word of the Opportunity Awards has already generated great interest at target high schools throughout Southern California. Principals, counselors and teachers want to send us their best and brightest, with the hope that these students can enjoy the benefits of a Mount education.

The recipients of the Opportunity Award will be, in many cases, the first in their families to attend college. They will face a future of new challenges in a new century. With your help, these eager young women will be able to spend their freshman year here free of the increasingly heavy burden of college loans.

When you began your work at the Mount, you may not have realized how much of your education was made possible by the generosity of past graduates. The Alumnae Opportunity Award will honor both the graduates, yourselves, who have made the Mount what is is— and the future students who promise to make the Mount what it will be.

Help us send an Opportunity Award recipient on the road to a lifelong love of learning.

Use this envelope to make your gift—and your pledge!

Union Federal Savings Bank has a Charitable Donations Program for non-profit organizations, including MSMC. They describe their program as follows:*
Donations are given on ALL accounts, including checking, savings, retirement accounts and CDs. If you have an existing Union Federal account, or if you open a new one, be sure to code it with your MSMC group number, #079.

Your group will then receive an annual donation from Union Federal. This donation is in addition to your interest.

With your UnionPlus Checking Account, you're entitled to a FREE VISA card and FREE Checking. You'll also enjoy our convenient ATM locations, safe deposit boxes and FREE VISA Travelers Cheques.

For more information, please call Jo Friedman at (213) 659-2240, or the branch manager at your local Union Federal Savings Bank branch.*

LaVerne Rosa Harris, '77, leader of Financial Planning seminar offered to alumnae and parents; Ms. Jo Friedman, Assistant Vice President, Community Relations for Union Federal Savings Bank; Margaret Sprigg Horst '58, Director of Alumnae Relations.
